

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS

Dispatcher Ed Brownlie, who has been here for some time, has been promoted and will move to Birmingham in a short time to take a position on the Birmingham Mineral. While we regret to lose Mr. Brownlie, we are glad to know his abilities as a dispatcher are recognized by the officials.

Conductor Shelton and Engineer James Long, with engine 962 made a trial tonnage trip last Saturday. They left Guthrie with 800 tons and got over the road moderately well. These large engines are doing good work and have proved a success. It depends a great deal on who is pulling the throttle, however, and when Jim Long can't get over the road with a heavy train no one else need try.

We understand that Conductor Sweeney was slightly injured by coming in contact with the corner of the desk in his caboose and a certain boarding house mistress in Nashville was very uneasy about him. How about it, boys?

We are deeply indebted to Engineer Moynihan for the bottle of hair renewer he sent us, but sorry it failed to renew. However, we will try to struggle along with the hair we have until we climb the golden stairs, when the angels will provide us with a full suit of hair.

We failed to mention in our last issue that Conductor Willie Boyd and wife attended the Curale-Eudaly nuptials at Nebo.

Agent Woodbridge, of Madisonville, says: "The outside public do not know the worries and troubles of a railroad man. They labor under the erroneous idea that the life of the average railroad man lies along a flower strewn path and all he has to do is to go to the pay car and get his money."

Operator F. D. Coffey, of Guthrie, is well pleased with his new position now, although he disliked it at first. There must be some cause for the sudden change and we surmise he has met some of the Todd county beauties.

It is reported one of our popular officials will take unto himself a wife in the near future. While we do not put much confidence in the report, we sincerely hope it is true.

Dispatcher John Devney visited friends in Nashville one day this week.

Dispatcher Willie Griffin is contemplating a visit to his old home in Ohio this summer to be gone for a month.

A double-headed freight train going north was wrecked at Leedale, one and a half miles north of Falkville, Ala., Monday morning at 1:30 o'clock. The wreck was caused by a broken axle. Six cars loaded with rosin and an empty oil tank were completely demolished, being burst into kindling wood, and the rosin was scattered for several hundred yards along the track, the hot sunline today causing it to run in streams along the track. The track was torn up for several hundred yards, and it was 9 o'clock before it was sufficiently cleared and repaired for trains to pass. No one was seriously hurt, though one negro brakeman was thrown about 50 feet and considerably bruised.

Mayor Grainger has been offered the presidency of the Louisville Jockey Club under a plan of reorganization on a big scale. He has the matter under consideration.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Defends the American Army in the Philippines.

WAR CHARACTERIZED BY SINGULAR FORBEARANCE.

President Roosevelt in his famous Decoration Day speech at Arlington, had this to say among other things in defense of the American army in the Philippines:

"The guilty are to be punished; but in punishing them, let those who sit at ease at home, who walk delicately and live in the soft places of the earth, remember also to do them common justice. Let not the effortless and the untimely rest overmuch at strong men who with blood and sweat face years of toil and days and nights of agony, and at need lay down their lives in remote tropical jungles to bring the light of civilization into the world's dark places. The warfare that has extended the boundaries of civilization at the expense of barbarism and savagery has been for centuries one of the most potent factors in the progress of humanity. Yet from its very nature it has always and everywhere been liable to dark abuses.

It behooves us to keep a vigilant watch to prevent these abuses and to punish those who commit them; but if because of them we flinch from finishing the task on which we have entered we show ourselves craven and weaklings, unworthy of the sires from whose loins we sprang. There were abuses and to spare in the Civil War. Your false friends then called Grant a "butcher" and spoke of you as being listening to me as mercenaries, as "Lincoln's hirelings." Your open foes—as in the resolution passed by the Confederate Congress in October, 1862—accused you, at great length, and with much particularity, of "contemptuous disregard of the usages of civilized war;" of "subjecting women and children to banishment, imprisonment, and death;" of "murder," of "rapine," of "outrages on women," of "lawless cruelty," of "perpetrating atrocities which would be disgraceful to savages," and Abraham Lincoln was singled out for special attack because of his "spirit of barbarous ferocity." Verily, these men who thus foully slandered you have their heirs today in those who traduce our armies in the Philippines, who fix their eyes on individual deeds of wrong so keenly that at last they become blind to the great work of peace and freedom that has already been accomplished.

Sabree Camp Meeting.
The committee having the matter in hand held a meeting one day last week and fixed the date of the annual camp meeting at Sabree for August 7. The meeting will be held on the Cascade camp grounds and will last about two weeks.

The Democratic convention in session at Indianapolis is anti-Iryan. Chairman Kern made a plea for harmony and the platform attacks the Republican policy in general, especially denouncing the conduct of affairs in the Philippines.

The Hon. A. J. Russell, Speaker of the Mississippi House of Representatives, was found dead at Oxford, Miss., where the night before he had delivered the annual oration at the University of Mississippi.

Several paroles were granted by the State Prison Commission.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

It is an evident fact that the appearance on the scene or threats of the U. M. W. have no influence over the Barnsley miner, because during the last year, without a break, they have labored faithfully and continuously, but just mention picnic to them and the record is broken, as was shown last Saturday, when they laid down their picks and shovels to attend the picnic at Mortons and we believe after such faithful service that they were entitled to and justified in taking a day of rest.

When mines right under the nose of the leading U. M. W. of the county work without cessing, and in fact increase their output of coal, is it not high time said order should run up the flag of unconditional surrender, and like men, acknowledge their to be a lost cause and one they are ashamed of.

If the miners' union is as strong both financially and numerically as they boast of through their President Mitchell, how is it that they have already sent up an appeal for help to the President of the United States? Such action indicates that the surplus is gone or fast vanishing. Idleness soon eats up the surplus.

One of Hecla's miners, Mr. James Vinson, feels confident he is the inventor of a good piece of mechanism and will send same to Washington for patent.

Thousands of the Virginia miners have answered the call to strike, and thousands more women and children will soon be destitute of the necessities of life. Thus the bad influence of the eastern miner is spreading westward.

Quite a number of the Barnsley coal producers came down last Sunday to attend the decoration services held by the Odd Fellows here on that day.

Some prominent men of New York have requested the President of the United States to use his best efforts to put an end to the trouble between the anthracite miner and operator, but investigation has shown the President that the law which gave him even a semblance of right to interfere has been repealed.

The Empire Coal Company through its attorneys was on hand at Hopkinsville last week upon the case against the murderers of Officer Coffey. A sincere desire to punish the guilty ones alone causes them to thus act.

Foreman Twyman, of the slack washer, fears that he is losing the hearing of one of his ears on account of the continual noise and coal dust encountered there. Dr. Chatten is looking after his wants, medically speaking.

After quite a delay on account of broken machinery, the Reinecke Coal Company again resumed work last week.

Complete Combustion of Coal Gases.—Dr. J. B. Harris, Nashville, Tenn., is perfecting a device by which he claims to be able to consume all gases and smoke from coal combustion in furnaces. He started six years ago to perfect an arrangement for alleviating the smoke nuisance. He now claims his invention will burn all smoke and gas from the furnace and save 50 percent on the coal bill. There are people all over the United States who are looking for this, and who will rise up and call Dr. Harris blessed if his invention proves successful.

It would seem from the article below that the Pennsylvania miner has resorted to kidnapping of those placed on guard to property.

Hazleton, Penn.—The five special who were kidnapped by strikers at the railroad station here upon the arrival from Philadelphia last night returned home today in charge of J. P. Gallagher, district secretary of the United Mine Workers, who furnished the transportation. The mine workers will make an effort to check the hiring of men in Philadelphia by representatives of the coal companies, and may seek the aid of labor unions of that city in the movement.

The same spirit that seemed to govern the U. M. W. here last year; the desire to control by force now is seen cropping out in the east as shown by the article here quoted:

Mahanoy City, Penn., June 8.—Two hundred union pickets guarded the approaches to Tunnel Ridge colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company at the western end of the city today, and refused to pass James Holloway, Charles Carl, George Oliver and William Dadds, all bosses. They were forced to return home. Maple Hill colliery resumed the hoisting of water this morning. Strikers held upon the engineers at the Gilbert works shaft this morning, and as a result the hoist is idle.

For the first time in quite a while the South Diamond mine force was idle last Saturday a big picnic given by some of the operators of the mine. But you can look out for a rousing week's work this week. A day of rest to the miners is better than medicine for the sick.

John Salmon and wife of the Crabtree mine attended the wedding of Rev. Currie at Nebo last week.

John Mitchell, of the U. M. W., evidently sees the "hand writing on the wall," that defeat stares them in the face. So he is anxious for a settlement without recognition of the cause. If the following be true:

New York, June 9.—A new plan is being discussed for settling the strike of the anthracite miners. It is on different lines from any hitherto tried. Some of the leading operators are said to be in favor of the scheme.

It is proposed to appoint a committee, which will go to the mines and investigate the conditions and try to effect a settlement. There are four matters to be considered, one of which is the weighing of the coal. President Mitchell, of the U. M. W., is said to have discussed the plan and is alleged to be willing to waive the question of recognition of the union card. Some slight concessions may be made on the other side.

Washington, June 9.—The President today had a long conference at the White House with Senator Hanna on the coal strike. The President conveyed to Mr. Hanna the idea that he would like very much to do something toward settling the strike. Nothing definite, however, was decided upon.

The president also sent for Carroll D. Wright, the commissioner of Labor, to get his views on the situation, and also as to what might properly be done by the Government looking to a settlement of the controversy. It is probable that other conferences will be held and the President kept advised of the situation. He will be in readiness at all times to extend aid if it is found that he can be of service in settling the differences that exist between the operators and the miners.

INTOLERABLE CONDITIONS.

Silent Reign of Terror and Open Violence in the Anthracite Regions.

But President Mitchell Didn't Know Anything Was Going On.

Among the interesting things that have come out in the dispatches from the anthracite coal strike regions is this from Wilkesbarre to the New York Sun a few days ago:

"President Mitchell said to night that he considers the strike practically complete, as additional freemen, engineers and pumpmen have joined the strikers and he is well satisfied with the campaign. He was asked regarding the many outbreaks and said:

"I have heard of no reports of any outbreaks, violence or intimidation at any place."

"The operators authorized the following in reply to Mr. Mitchell:

"There has never been a time since Mr. Mitchell became prominent in the troubles in the coal regions when he ever knew of any violence, intimidation or any other kind of extraordinary influence on the men who were working for the companies, according to his own account.

"At the same time, ever since Mr. Mitchell assumed control of the United Mine Workers of America, wherever there has been trouble, the leaders of that trouble have been closeted with Mr. Mitchell behind closed doors for hours and have then left for the scene where trouble arose. Mr. Mitchell may not have given orders for the trouble, but the men who left the office went right into the districts where trouble arose immediately.

"This was especially the case in the strike at Hazleton in 1900, and yet the men who fomented all the troubles there rushed right from Mr. Mitchell's office to the scene where disorder began almost immediately. At that time Mr. Mitchell said that no trouble, disorder or intimidation of any kind had been reported to his office. Of course not; he forbids any reports of the kind to come in. His myrmidons do his work, but must not tell him anything about it."

The things that were happening in that immediate region, under Mitchell's eyes, are chronicled in the dispatches of the same date. Here are some of them:

THE NIGHT MARCHES BEGIN.

There has developed a spirit of aggressive unrest among the strikers which past experience teaches is the precursor of violence. The night "marches" have begun. These demonstrations are nominally nothing worse than horse play antics in derision of men who choose to work. There is hooting and stoning of houses, maybe, and much brass band whooping and hurrahs. But in the past more than one fatal collision has been the outcome of these movements, and when one of the "marches" begins no man knows what the end will be.

Sheriff Jacobs was specifically called upon tonight to suppress a threatened disturbance at the Beaver Brook mine in the Hazleton district. He at once responded by swearing in four deputies at the mine and the trouble was averted.

REIGN OF TERROR.

By a silent reign of terror almost beyond human nerve to resist, men who did not want to quit work were forced by the nervous prostration of their wives and families to throw up their jobs.

Valentine Stark, an engineer in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company reported to his boss in great agitation this morning. He could not go on, he said. It was no use. His wife had been constantly hounded while he was at work and the night before strikers had come to his house and threatened to blow him and his entire family up if he continued at work. His wife was in delicate health. He feared for her life if he continued at work and the persecutions were kept up by his surely would be. So he must quit and did quit.

It is the old cowardly story of striking at a man through those who are nearest and dearest to him—his wife and his helpless children. There has been a systematic campaign of this kind all through the region, and where sneak work of this kind did not avail, open violence was resorted to. This morning a man named John Thomas was dragged from a trolley car near Prospect mine and thrown into a creek because he would not turn back when on his way to work. Half a dozen men in the employ of the Lehigh company were forcibly prevented from going to work today. Many more reported to the company that they believed themselves to be in deadly peril and that they could stand the pressure no longer.

But in one word the situation within twenty-four hours has come to this, that no man can continue at the work of protecting the mines from destruction by flood unless he and his family are kept out of the clutches of the strikers who are intimidating them and beating them just as Samuel Scott, a Delaware mine employee, was set upon and so savagely pounded this morning that he is now in a hospital.

BUILDING STOCKADES.

Anthracite Operators Prepared For Protecting Employees Lives and Their Property.

Ready to Repel Guerrilla Warfare, Such as Hopkins County Enjoyed For Months.

A special dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to the New York Sun, says:

Those who have no stockades are putting them up as fast as they can. Where stockades are not feasible barbed wire fences will be used. To cross an imaginary property boundary line is one thing for a mob. To break and enter beyond a high board fence is another. The stockade is relied upon for its moral effect quite as much as for the physical resistance it offers to attack. To attack an armed camp behind a stockade is not the most inviting proposition even from the mere physical standpoint.

The armed camp, however, is no novel proposition to the U. M. W. of A. From armed camps they conducted a guerrilla warfare for nineteen months in Kentucky upon miners who did not want to join their order and strike and who still remain at work with no thoughts of becoming unionized. If that long and bloody war is a prototype of what is to be here then dark indeed are the deeds that are ahead in the anthracite region.

It is passing strange these young men of Earlington don't get married. They are always talking about it, and how nice it would be, and yet they will go to see a girl of months and years, burn up tons of coal and buy a lot of money, pay out enormous money for liverly hire to buy a house and lot and never take up courage enough to ask a girl to have them. ## A YOUNG COURIER

A TALE OF THE CIVIL WAR
— BY —
BLUE G. BARD,

CHAPTER IV.

True to the order of his colonel, he reported to him at sunset. He would have been glad to have remained with his friend that night, but it was better to camp, as he had been told to do.

The colonel kindly gave him permission next morning to join his friends in the city and remain with them all day again. Paul knew of their intention of leaving for home that afternoon and he knew he intended going with them. He could not go without a permit, and he was not going to ask for one, for he was sure it would be denied him. He was also sure that the father of Mrs. Adkins would not let him start with him unless he had a permit. How to manage it he did not know, but he would try his best, even if he failed.

He lingered around, talking to his friend, the colonel, some time. He wished very much to take him by the hand and say "good bye," but then the colonel would "sneed" morning, so simply saying "good morning," touching his hat and saluting soldier fashion, he ran off whistling as if leaving his friend was never in his mind.

He soon joined his Rebel friends, who were busy buying all they could, allowable and not allowable. The rules for searching every one who passed outside the lines were not so strict then as they were afterward, and it was much easier to smuggle out contraband articles.

When they were nearly through buying in the afternoon, Paul left them for a short while. He had heard that he was going home, and that morning and all were glad. It would have been hard to leave him there, but they were all doubtful about his getting permission. The women would have been willing to have smuggled him out, but the old gentleman whom Paul had always called Uncle Caleb at home would not run the risk. He knew several old men who had lain in prison month after month for smaller offenses.

After everything had been purchased and put safely in the wagons and the horses were being brought out ready to leave, Paul came hurriedly up and said, "Well, Uncle Caleb, I have my papers all right, and didn't have half the trouble I thought I would. My Yankee friends are not such bad fellows as we imagined. It seems right and fair to think how I dreaded to ask for that pass. I was almost sure I would be sent to the colonel. But, pshaw! they seemed glad for me to go."

Thus he ran on while they were getting everything ready. All were rejoiced to know that he was free to go where he pleased once more, and many were the guesses why he had been kept a prisoner so long if they were so willing that he should go now.

Paul did not dare go to his home. He said he had walked so far and far he would get in the wagon and lie down to rest awhile. "But," said he, "I thought she understood that movement, but said nothing. When they reached the picket line where their goods had to be searched, Paul was asleep, and Uncle Caleb was so tired that he had gone to sleep, and they took his word."

Paul remained in the wagon as far back out of sight as possible. He was very quiet, and Mrs. Adkins was sure he had no permit, yet she was so anxious that he should get home, she said nothing that would arouse her father's fears. They made good speed, and the horses were well rested and fed. They traveled till the sun was setting before finding a camping place.

Paul did not fear that the colonel would have him caught, for he had told him that his mother would remain several days in the city visiting friends, and had his permission to remain with her one night. He did not want to tell all these falsehoods, but he thought it necessary to do so in order to get away from those whom he considered enemies to the South.

After a night's rest, the camp were broken up early, and the party were on the road, all anxious to make a good day's drive toward home. Paul seemed anxious, and watched the road closely. He knew squads of soldiers were often sent out several miles from camp, and he did not want to be overtaken by anyone who knew him.

They had only driven a few miles when some one in the party called out, "Younder come a company of cavalry." Not knowing what they might do, for wagons were often stopped and searched by passing soldiers. The drivers had their teams on one side of the road in order to give them plenty of room to pass.

Paul was out of his hiding place in a moment, running around on the side furthest from the soldiers, he busied himself with the harness on one of the horses; stooping and reaching around so as to keep himself out of sight.

Luckily the soldiers passed on with out molesting anything, and not noticing Paul at all, or if they did, thinking he was one of the drivers. All breathed freely again and expressed their thanks. Paul got off so easily. Paul climbed into his place again and kept it all day. Even Uncle Caleb began to get suspicious. The boy usually so full of fun and frolic was too quiet, and watchful. He evidently was not enjoying his freedom. As they got nearer home he began to be very cheerful. He talked, whistled, sung and when within three or four miles of home he felt safe to tell to all what was really no news at all, that he had stolen away without a permit to come through the lines. He knew he was running the risk of letting his friends in the city know, but he felt that he just could not let them leave him there. They all would never do so again. He would make Kate his address next time, and not be caught by "blue coats."

Whites and blacks rejoiced when it was learned that Paul was at home again, for his courteous, and respectful demeanor, had won him many friends.

He had many interesting and amusing things to tell of his camp life with the Union Soldiers. He sang "Fanny," and told of the funny sayings of the Dutch soldiers, who he was thrown in company with during his absence.

He never had a hard word for any soldier, with whom he had been for the past few months. All had been kind to him, and to some he was very much attached, especially the Colonel, who had treated him as a young brother, and whose love for him was plainly shown a few months afterward.

It was a lovely moonlight night in February. Paul had been home about nine months. His desire to be a soldier had left him entirely, and he was satisfied to engage in business less dangerous and exciting.

He made his home with his friend Mr. Adkins, but was often away with his bachelor quarters at home, at a time on business for the Confederate army.

They were both at home on this particular night. Mr. A. at his bachelor quarters about a quarter of a mile down the country road. His Kate's family, after standing in the front yard a short while after their evening meal, to admire the beauty of the night, had entered the living room and seated themselves around the fire, with Paul in their midst. Two of Mrs. Adkins sisters were visiting her, Lida, a young girl of sixteen, and a married sister whom we shall call Kate.

They were all engaged in lively conversation, and the little ones were begging for a promised story from Aunt Fanny, before their bed time, when they were startled by the sound of horses coming past. At the time on the road, and before they had time to speak of it, they heard the voice of Cousin Will in loud tones calling out:

"The groins, boys! What is the matter with you folks in there? Are you all asleep? Every one rushed to the door with trembling limbs and blanched faces. They knew something exciting and dreadful was the matter for 'Cousin Will' did not raise an alarm for nothing. "What is it Will?" asked Mrs. Adkins. "Why, don't you hear that noise, those awful yells and screams. Why, the country is full of Yankees, and why that great noise I can't imagine."

"Where is Paul," he questioned, but Paul had waited only to hear a few words, and was then half a mile to the stable for a horse, but the poor excited child had left his saddle and bridle behind.

One of the little boys ran after him with hat and bridle, and in a few minutes he had brought the horse to the gate, saddled him, and ran to the house for his gun. Cousin Will had his gun also lying across his saddle in front of him. They knew if they were found at the house they would be carried off, and perhaps the house burned because fire arms were found there.

The Union soldiers often threatened when they were searching houses, to burn the house if guns or pistols were found; but there were a few instances, known to the writer of this story, where they made it convenient not to find the guns, although they were almost in plain view.

The man and boy sat but a few minutes, listening and wondering, and trying to console the poor frightened woman and children, when they were leaving alone. "Don't be uneasy, we would stay with you if we could protect you, but what would two be against so many?" We would be sure to be taken or killed. We won't go far away. Hang up a white sheet or something when all danger is over so we can know when to come home," and then they wheeled their horses and started for the woods.

This hanging out something white was the usual signal to those in hiding that it was safe to come home.

When the men were gone the children looked at each other in their helplessness. "What can it mean," said Fanny. "What do all those noises mean? I cannot imagine what nor where it is."

"I tell you what I fear," said Mrs. Adkins. "I pray God that it may not be."

"The raid that came down day before yesterday told, at almost every house, that there were to be two regiments of negroes down in a day or two and not a white man among them, and that they had authority to kill and burn as they go."

"I heard that too," said Fanny, her teeth chattering as she had an ague, but I put no confidence in the report then. You know the Union soldiers are always telling us something to keep up our courage, but I believe the northern men would be so cruel as that; it is more like savages than civilized white men."

"Well, what is it then? Just listen to the awful noise. You can almost hear the curses of the men, those screams and yells! Oh! what can it be, if not that?"

"We cannot stay here. Do let us go somewhere, either to Mr. Thomas' house, or to the woods, or to Captain Ben's, through the open fields. Which is safest, I wonder?" Then she added, "Oh, sell one of the negroes, quick, to send and warn Cousin Ben and Albert! I had forgotten they are at home."

"Paul sent Aunt Almira right at the first, mamma," said Robert, one of the little boys.

"Why did Almira have to go? Where were Jack and Delph?"

"Don't know where Delph was. Jack had gone to see a girl, his mamma said, and none of the rest of the folks were in the cabins. I looked in all of them."

FACTS IN THE CASE.

ELDER VICTOR W. DORIS.

Editor Earlinton Bee:

My Dear Sir:—In a report of our recent meeting in Earlinton, published in your issue of May 29, I find certain strictures and misrepresentations to which I wish to offer a word of kindly dissent and explanation.

I most earnestly deny:—
1. That I am "a strong supporter of my doctrine." I have no doctrine apart from the doctrine of Christ and His apostles, and they are no more mine than they are the doctrines of any and all who accept and teach them.

2. That I deny that I am "a tireless fighter of all denominations." The scribe who makes this charge knows that the use of the phrase, "all denominations," implies that "belong to and try to build up one of denominations, and this is not true."

Our constant protest has been against the unscripturalness and selfishness of denominationalism; and no matter what else may be said, all can see that we cannot consistently seek the removal of denominationalism, while we at the same time admit that we are adding another denomination. Our position on this whole matter is both clear and reasonable, but your scribe, who heard me but once, has never given our plea a fair, impartial hearing, and what is true of him is also true of many others; they refuse to give a fair hearing that do not hesitate to call us "fighters and narrow."

This is what I taught:
The word of God provides for and endorses, one church and only one; that is the church of Christ itself, and to this church all have the right to belong if they will.

Not only so, the word of God does not, in any sense, provide for and endorse the divisions in the church known as denominations, with divisive and conflicting creeds, confessions of faith and different standards of doctrine. No matter who they belong to, they divide and support them, and no matter how liberal, pious and earnest they may be, and no matter how satisfied they may be, it is still true that the present divided state of divisions into denominations is contrary to the plain, full letter and spirit of God's word. Will your scribe undertake to show that God's word provides for the present divided state of divisions into denominations, conflicting denominations? He should be able to do so or cease to indiscriminately condemn me for making a faithful, patient effort to point out these defects and also to point out the clear way of solution. No one can intelligently read John 17:20-23; 1 Cor. 1:10; 2:14; Eph. 4:1-6, and still conscientiously say that it is right and proper to have two bodies, as we do, in the church. Will my honest reader turn to these passages now, and then answer before God this question:

When a man points out that divisions in the church are creeds, confessions of faith, human names, etc., are useless, unscriptural, and therefore sinful, and when he opens his Bible and shows that God, Christ, the Holy Spirit and the apostles all abundantly teach that we should all be one, that we can be one, and shows us plainly how this can be accomplished; I say, when a man does all this over and over, day after day, and he is the plainest and fullest teaching of the blessed Bible, is it right for some one who has heard me but one time to publish to hundreds of people who do not hear me that I am a fighter, and that my course is "contrary to Christian brotherhood?"

This charge against me will not deceive those who heard me faithfully, and it is certainly not fair to those who did not hear me. Remembering now that what I did was to point out that our present divided condition is not only not supported in God's word, but also that the word most positively and fully warns us against these very things. Furthermore, I showed that God has plainly taught us to be one in Christ, and that we should all be members of the one body, the church of Christ. I taught that there should be no divisions among us. I told the public I informed that I a "fighter," a "strong supporter of my doctrine," and that my "course" was "contrary to Christian brotherhood." I suppose that about the proper way to promote Christian brotherhood is to accept the present divided and conflicting forces as God's ideal brotherhood.

No conscientious, intelligent Bible student thinks so. The greatest hindrance to which I wish to offer a hindrance and most devout and earnest teachers of the last seventy-five years have said that divisions, creeds, etc., are to be deplored and can be rectified by the union of all God's people.

We insist that this union can, and must be accomplished by a return to the teaching faith, and practice of the early church of the first century. The man who takes God's word as his guide and follows its lead, sees no room, nor need for these divisions; and furthermore, if a teacher believes and practices what the early church did, he will be right and cannot be wrong, and this cause never was, never will and never can lead to the creation of sectarian divisions.

When I taught this in Earlinton was I right or was I wrong. Let the honest, sincere reader answer.

You may say that I should have tried to offend no one, but to please every one. Let me answer that I am not averse to pleasing people, but that I dislike very much to offend them, but I am much more concerned about pleasing my Lord and Master, than I am about pleasing people and if any one was disappointed in me because I did not become a time server that I might please every one, even at the expense of truth and conviction, they should look to God, to see whether I taught the truth or not, and if I did, they should change their views and not ask me to quit preaching the truth.

Earlington, or any other place will be blessed just in proportion as its preachers will scorn to be time servers and men pleasers at the sacrifice of the truth of God.

Will your "scribe" undertake to show from the word of God:
1. That I taught a single doctrine which is not plainly taught in God's word? I hear him say he cannot do it. He can say that I taught things which were not believed by many, but that is not the question.
2. Will he teach that God's word provides for and supports denominations?

Those who are too busy, indifferent or partial to investigate the truth may be pleased with the easy going assumption of your "scribe" that we should go along and "do as we please." "Christian brotherhood," by accepting all kinds of teachings and denominations as proper, but as the public grows in intellectual strength and Bible knowledge, the demand will be made more and more for "one body, one hope, one spirit, one faith, one Lord, one baptism, and one God." Eph. 4:4-6, and will visit that perfection through the "unity of the faith," Eph. 4:6.

This will not and cannot come by joining this or that denomination, but by being free from all denominational limitations and by being one in the church of Christ, the church of Christ, in Christ's church; not my church, but Christ's church, and we are all brethren in the one body or family.

What can be done and anything short of it is not what God's word provides for.

Am I right or wrong in teaching it?

This is written in justice to the cause of Christ in Earlinton, and especially in justice to the faithful preacher and noble members of the church of Christ there.

I am not seeking newspaper notoriety, nor am I seeking discussion, but that justice be done to our great plea for the union of all God's people in one body in Christ. I think I may turn this matter over to Mrs. Mitchell, who is amply able to take care of it. However, I shall not refuse to serve the cause there in any way I can and should.

Most Cordially,
Victor W. Doris.

FACTS &amp; FICTION

BLUE G. BARD.

There comes to every man and woman, be they rich or poor, a time when they yearn for the unattainable, a time when they long for the return of some bright particular day when they went picknicking with their sweetheart and accidentally decorated their white linen trousers by sitting down on a blackberry pie. We did that once and the memory of it clings to us still. Nor will we ever forget the surprise and delight with which we ate our first Indian turnip, the succulent root was handed us by a freckled girl several years our senior who assured us it was highly prized by the Indians as an article of food, and we came to the immediate conclusion it was also the chief cause of their hot temper.

The creek that wound in and out among the trees not far from our cabin home, and on whose banks we built our wigwam and pursued the dangerous muskrat to his native lair, has shrunk considerably since first our eyes rested upon it and we no more believe it would be navigable for boats. But, oh! that we could call back one day out of the mellow haze of the bygone past when we were an innocent unsuspecting youth and stood full knee deep in the luke-warm pools near our suburban home and let the yielding soothing mud and meek eyed wiggle-tails squirt up through our dimpled toes.

That word home always sounds like poetry to me. It rings like a peal of bells at a wedding only more soft and sweet, and it chimes deeper into the ears of my heart. It does not matter whether it means thatched cottage or manor-house, home is home; be it ever so homely, there is no place on earth like it, Green grows the house-leek on the roof forever, and let the moss flourish on the thatch. Sweetly the sparrows chirrup and the swallows twitter around my chosen spot which is my joy and rest. Every bird loves its own nest; the owl think the old ruins the fairest spot under the moon, and the fox is of opinion that his in the hill is a remarkably easy.

When a horse knows that his head is toward home he wants no whip, but thinks it best to put on all steam; and I am always of the same mind, for the way home, to me, is the best bit of road in the country. I like to see the smoke out of my chimney better than the fire in another man's hearth; there's something so beautiful in the way in which it curls up among the trees. Cold potatoes on my own table taste better than roast meat at my neighbor's, and the honey-suckle at my own door is the sweetest I ever smelled.

Do you ever say disagreeable things to people? Ever occur to you that if you can't help others you can at least, let them alone? Every time you say a disagreeable thing you not only make a man mad, but you cause him to invent plans to "get even." You might avoid both of these consequences by keeping your mouth shut.

Ten Years is Bad.
R. A. Grant, J. P. Oakville, Ind., writes, "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but couldn't get relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended. It has been a God-send to me. Sold by John A. Taylor."

THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1902.

The Tennessee Democrats in convention assembled have declared against the government's policy in the Philippines and have told just how it should be done. All the other Democrats may now "go way back," our Tennessee neighbors have done settled it.

At last for the first time in the history of the two papers the Commercial and Courier-Journal have agreed on one subject, that the United Mine Workers are right and should win the anthracite coal strike. It is peculiar to say the least of it, how two of our great dailies, so far apart on other subjects, can both be on the wrong side of this subject.

Union leaders in Chicago stopped the meat wagons. Union leaders in Pennsylvania have stopped all the anthracite coal trains and wagons in the whole country. Without compunction union leaders, for the sake of "recognition"—usually notorious recognition—would put their followers the country over upon starvation rations, stop trade and industry and discommodate mankind, without mentioning the destruction of property and the violence to persons who do not obey their dictates, which always is a part of any considerable strike effort. Truly God and Americans are long-suffering.

The latest thing in boycotts comes from Indiana. In the little town of Newburg smoked meats and fish are being eaten in lieu of beef and pork. The situation is queer indeed. There is only one butcher shop in the town, owned by the son of a farmer. The farmer had a non-union farm hand to whom he was paying $1 per day. The union men in Newburg demanded that he pay him $1.25. He refused. A boycott was then placed on the son's butcher shop and the farmer was forced to terms. This, however, was not satisfactory to the union and they then claimed the farmer's hired man was not a member of the union and demanded his discharge unless he would join. The man refused to join the union and the farmer refused to discharge him, hence the boycott was again enforced against the farmer's son meat shop and the Newburg people are still eating gardens and canned salmon.

Business Can't Be Held Up.
The new list of prices for hard coal in this city, "Strike Schedule No. 2," as it was called, showing a second raising of prices, was published yesterday. From the present outlook the number of "Strike Schedules" to come before the crisis ends is not for any one to predict.

What cause the trouble? Why can't we have coal?

Do the miners control the labor market so absolutely that the operators cannot get workmen except upon their terms? Or are the operators prevented from obtaining help by dread of violence?

Do the miners keep the mines shut through a genuine monopoly of labor, or by physical force? Suppressing all pertinent evidence upon these questions that has been afforded already, they will have to be answered before long to the general satisfaction of all.

If the miners have made themselves absolute in their power through peaceful and lawful agreement among themselves not to work, mining will have to be resumed upon their terms and upon no others; for nothing can make freemen work against their will. But if the first serious attempt of the operators to begin the getting out of coal is met with a sign of violence in opposition, then the disturbance of business and the great and growing inconvenience and hardship will be seen to be the work of lawlessness, and of that alone.

Business can't permit itself to be "held up."—New York Sun.

World's Fair Notes.

Denmark has begun the collection of a national exhibit for the World's Fair at St. Louis.

Texas will make a mineral exhibit at the World's Fair that will surprise those who have regarded the state as one devoted chiefly to agriculture, stock raising and lumber production.

Elmer E. Johnston, executive commissioner of the Washington State Commission, will visit St. Louis this month to select a site for the Washington building.

The General synod of the Reformed Church in session at Baltimore adopted a resolution favoring an exhibit of the church at the World's Fair.

Letters and newspapers received from Europe show a widespread interest in the proposed parliament of Editors at the World's Fair.

A great descriptive map of Texas is to be one of the features of the exhibit from that state.

The idea of a corn palace for the Iowa State building is warmly approved in that state.

The Commercial Clubs of Indiana have had in mind the question of organizing the State on the Kentucky plan to raise $100,000 for the state exhibit at the World's Fair. They have now decided to wait until after the next session of the legislature which meets in January, to see what action may be taken.

Wisconsin teachers will ask $10,000 from the State World's Fair Commission, with which to make an exhibit of the State's educational work.

Rev. C. E. Kircher Preaches to the Evansville K. of P's.

The Knights of Pythias of Evansville held their annual memorial services at the First Avenue church Sunday morning, when a sermon was preached by the pastor, the Rev. C. E. Kircher.

The Knights met at the castle hall at the corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets and marched to the church in a body. Rev. Mr. Kircher took as his text the 14th verse of the 17th chapter of Exodus as follows: "This day shall be unto you a memorial."

The pastor paid a fine tribute to the order of Knights of Pythias. Special music was rendered by the choir.

HIS BABY WAS SAVED

The Father Gives Full Details in an Interesting Interview.

He is W. H. K. Bedford of Owensboro.

(From the Courier-Journal, St. Louis.)

The old biblical adage that "a prophet is never without honor save in his own country," is undoubtedly true in ninety-nine instances out of one hundred, when either applied to man or the product of his wonderful genius. Said one of our physicians in Tennessee. It takes results to have effect upon home people. No amount of advertising will convince a person who has a remedy put up to that it is the property of the proprietors claim. He is a doctor who has been the physical effects. When once convinced, though he is an advocate of its merits so long as he lives.

Of course, thousands of people know that Owens Pink Mixture is put up by the Floyd Medicine Company of Detroit, Mich., but there was a time when it was not. It was prepared for the public for several years in Owensboro, Ky., and there it was that the people first became acquainted with its wonderful merits as a life saver to the young.

William H. K. Bedford is one of the best known young men in Owensboro. He is connected with one of the largest mercantile establishments in the city. Aside from this, he stands high socially, and is a brother of the church of Christ. He is rather of a reserved disposition and does not care for publicity. When approached on the subject of an interview in regard to the merits of Owens Pink Mixture, he was inclined to be reticent, only consented to tell the story of its wonderful results in his own family.

He did not hesitate to assert that the little beacon light of happiness in his home owed its very existence, not to the brilliancy, to Owens Pink Mixture.

Bedford was his place of business when approached and asked for a story of what the medicine had done in his own home. It was related between times as customers came and went out of the establishment. Said he:

"Have I ever used Owens Pink Mixture? Well, I am proud to say that I have. Every sentiment that I voice about the wonderful results of this medicine in my family is that of my wife. The last time I saved my first-born had almost faded away, when, by mere chance, like a drowning man after a straw, I brought home a bottle of this medicine. We administered the medicine according to the directions, but I must say with little hope of doing any good. You can imagine almost the reverence my wife and I now feel towards that which brought back the flush of life to the cheeks of our loved one, and once more stamped upon his cherubic face the bloom of health. If we have an ill child in our home it is Owens Pink Mixture, for we are never without it."

One night, as I was hurrying homeward with a heavy heart, a friend approached me and asked what was worrying me. I told him of the situation of my first-born. He said, "Have you never tried Owens Pink Mixture?" I told him I had never heard of it, having recently moved to Owensboro. He told me to wait a minute and he would go to the laboratory and bring me a bottle. I was willing to try anything. Still, I had little faith in the pink-wrapped package. I went straight home and told my wife what I had been asked to try. She was willing to try anything to get her baby back to health. She gave me the medicine as prescribed by the doctor. To our utter amazement the child grew quiet in less than six hours after the first dose had been administered. Before morning he had passed into a gentle sleep. As we sat by his bedside through the long and weary night we thought we could see great signs of improvement.

To make a long story short—in less than ten days our baby had fully recovered. He grew fat, healthy and strong. Both of us attribute his living to-day to the efficacy of Owens Pink Mixture. We have never without it. We have used some six or eight bottles of it. Our baby knows it. He begins to smile with delight whenever he sees his mother reach up and take down the bottle. We gave the medicine all through his teething and had but little trouble with him. I don't think that I could say too much in praise for any medicine that has done so very desirable effects on grown people who are affected with bowel trouble. It is a pleasure to me to testify to its merit and I think it should be in every household in the United States where there are children.

Owens Pink Mixture is a perfectly harmless preparation for teething children. It allays irritation and makes teething easy. It regulates the bowels and stomach. It cures colic, constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, loss of sleep, nervousness, constipation, or sour stomach.

Owens Pink Mixture is put up in two sizes of bottles, 50c and 25c. For sale by all druggists. A trial bottle will be sent free to any one addressing the Floyd Medicine Co., Detroit, Mich.

To the Public.

During our residence among the people of Earlington there have been many opportunities to test the loving interest, tender care, and unflinching kindness manifested when trouble came to our home.

Last week evidences of the love and solicitude of so many were presented to me and the attentive and living sympathy of friends and neighbors helped greatly to soften the blow which sudden death brought to us. With keen appreciation of all the kindly acts and loving expressions. We desire to extend to each one our heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely,
MR. AND MRS. W. F. BUBB.

PISO'S CURE FOR STOMACH AND BOWEL CONSUMPTION

PREHISTORIC RELICS

Wanted by Department of Archaeology
Recently Established at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

Andover, Mass., June 7, 1902.
Editor of the "Earlington Bee":

Dear Sir:—Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., has recently established a Department of Archaeology. My object in writing you is to encourage the preservation of stone, clay and bone prehistoric art forms. In your section of the country are frequently found various Indian relics. These have a direct bearing on the history—or rather prehistory—of America, and as such should be preserved in fireproof buildings for the study and education of present and future generations.

I am persuaded that there may be persons who have found some remains of the ancient Indian tribes, "Mound builders," etc., and that, possibly, they would be willing to send them to us. We shall be glad to pay express charges on any and all boxes of specimens sent to us to mention the gifts in our report and to give the donors due credit in our exhibition cases.

All these axes, spear heads, clay vessels and "strange stones," should be carefully preserved somewhere, where they may be of service to the public and to science. Archaeologically followed—is a new science in the United States and it is more important than the average reader imagines, for these "stone relics" have a direct bearing on the antiquity of man.

I shall be glad to correspond with persons who have "relics" in their possession. Thanking you, I am,
Yours very truly,
WARREN K. MOOREHEAD,
Curator.

Sudden Rides.

Charlie Curtis one day last week whilst pouring around in the recesses of his trouser pockets found a hidden treasure in the form of a nickel. Just at that time had locomotives been selling at ten cents per dozen Charlie could not have taken a half interest in a whirling on a cash basis and it seems that his sudden acquisition of riches has somewhat unsettled his mind, for since that time he has neglected business and walks the streets with both hands thrust deep into his pockets seeking coveted treasures.

Thus fortune over him holds her sway.
With smiles so bright but fickle,
He's letting dollars get away
A feeling for a nickel.

For the Summer Kitchen.

It is difficult to imagine a better balanced selection of domestic toilet articles than is found in the Family Delicacy, adapted as it is to the trying needs of hot weather. Housewives will appreciate especially the suggestions contained in Summer Salads and Cheese Dishes, the chapter on mayonnaise, the recipes for preparing cherries, and the directions for hot beverage. In addition is an article useful at any season on braising, frying and sautéing meats.

Bix Figures.

100,000,000. The figure of Perry Davis' Painkiller sold in 60 years. Just think! Nearly enough sold and to be sold to reach every corner of the world. What other remedy can boast such a record of services to humanity in relieving stomach and bowel complaints and the many other ailments and accidents constantly occurring in the most careful homes. There is only one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Beware of imitations.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running snivel or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for 75c the only remedy universally known as a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1866 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Roache's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps—but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and others that are cheap and good for difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and morning there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world.

These months of vacation is always a terror to school trustees—so many teachers are putting in their application for school.

Being a trustee of a school or church is no small thing, from the fact they are not doing their own private business, but they are doing business for the public and it is the trustee that they must try to please.

We are not unmindful of the fact that all will never be pleased, and we know further, that it takes the same thing to make a good home as it does to make a good church and school. The home, church and school are so closely allied to each other we might say they are inseparable one cannot exist without the other.

Some mothers and fathers have no more business with children than a hog with six legs. Some men have no more business in the Gospel's pulpit than the devil has in heaven. Some men are so busy with more business in the school room than a saint has in hell.

A HORRIBLE HOLOCAUST.

Ten Persons Lose Their Lives By the Burning of a Sanatorium in Chicago.

THIRTY OTHERS WERE BADLY INJURED.

A Rapid Wave of the Flames That It Was Impossible to Save Patients in the Upper Story, Some of Whom, Suffering from Various Diseases, Were Strapped to Beds.

Chicago, June 10.—Ten men and one woman were killed and about thirty persons were injured in a fire, yesterday afternoon, which destroyed the sanatorium connected with the St. Louis society, at Walsh avenue and Twenty-first street. The society occupied the building which was long known as the Hotel Woodruff and for a brief period as the sanatorium.

By far the greater portion of the patients received in the institution were those seeking cure from the drink habit and those who were addicted to the use of drugs. When the fire broke out there were on the fifth floor a number of patients suffering from delirium tremens and some who were damaged by drugs. Several of these were strapped to their beds, and it was found impossible to save them, so rapidly did the fire spread through the building.

The casualty list, as far as known at present—although it is possible that the list of the dead will be increased later—is as follows:

- The dead:
S. J. Newell.
William Kent, aidman of the Fourth ward, Chicago.
Carl A. Carter.
Joseph Harrington.
Samuel Dalzell.
Dr. J. T. Stanton.
J. H. Bishop, St. Louis, Mo.
George A. Ribbeck, Hillsdale, Mich.
John B. Knappman.
Mrs. M. Beaumant.
R. H. Boyd, 78 years of age and member of the medical staff of the institution.

The fire originated in the basement of the building, and spread rapidly to the upper stories through the elevator shaft. The fire was caused by James Newell, a grocer, who was driving through the alley in the rear of the building. He noticed smoke coming from one of the basement windows, and ran into the engine room to discover its cause. Behind the boilers in the center of the cellar and within a few feet of the elevator shaft he saw a small flame. The next instant the flames were caught by the draught in the elevator shaft and carried up with a roar. Newell shouted to several men in the alley to give the alarm and alarm the inmates of the building. Several hurried to do this, but by the time they reached the first floor of the building the flames had been carried to the roof, had eaten through it and were leaping high in the air.

As the cry of fire rang through the building, patients sprang from their beds and before they could be prevented several had jumped from the windows to the pavement.

The fire department was on the scene within a few minutes, and as the windows were filled with people shrieking for help the firemen devoted their first efforts to saving lives. They allowed the fire to burn. While this was the means of saving a large number of persons, who were carried down the ladders by the firemen, it gave the fire such headway that there was almost no chance for those on the upper floors of the building to make their escape and such of them as were not suffocated by the flames were badly injured by leaping from the windows.

IN FIVE PERSONS BURNED DEAD

GETTING INTO THE WAGON.

Surrender of Boers Reported From Various Points in War-Swept South Africa

CONROY'S MEN SAID: "GOD SAVE KING"

Gen. Schalk-Burger Faces Them to Forgive and Forget the Past—Kraeger Will Not Return in an English Ship, But Will Travel to His Old Home in a Dutch Vessel

—The surrender of more than 1,500 Boers has already been reported, covering various points. Commandant Pouché brought into Craadock, Cape Colony, his command, consisting of 35 Free Staters and 214 rebels. Pouché is in.

Commandant Conroy's men, on hearing that peace had been concluded, threw their hats in the air and cheered for King Edward, saying: "GOD SAVE THE KING."

These incidents dispel the fear expressed that the Cape Colony commanders would refuse to accede to the peace terms.

Gen. Christian Dewet is personally superintending the surrender of the Boers in the Vrededorp (Orange River) district.

Gen. Schalk-Burger, former acting president of the Transvaal, who is the guest of the governor of Natal, Col. Sir Henry Edward McCallum, at Pietermaritzburg, in an address to the burghers in the concentration camp, asked them to make the best of the situation, and to forget and forgive the past. He pointed out the hopelessness of continuing the struggle, urged the Boers to accept and act in accordance with the terms of the surrender, which he intended to uphold, and desired them to work for the good of South Africa.

THE POPE AND PRIAR LANDS. Secrecy Maintained as to the Conference Between the Pope and Cardinal Rampolla.

Rome, June 8.—The papal secretary of state, Cardinal Rampolla, had his usual private audience with the pope Saturday morning. Naturally, the question of the acquisition by the United States of the friar lands in the Philippines will be a subject for discussion at these daily conferences, but the alleged information on the subject is purely surmise, as absolute secrecy is maintained as to what transpires at these official visits.

Cardinal Rampolla was agreeably impressed by the frankness of Gov. Taft, by sending him a copy of Secretary Root's instructions for examination.

The pope has not yet appointed the commission of cardinals to which the matter is to be referred. This committee will consist of five, instead of three members, as previously supposed, and probably Cardinals Vanutelli, Satolli and Vives y Tuto will be included. Cardinal Martinielli will be excluded because he is an Augustinian.

Cardinal Rampolla returned the visit of Gov. Taft at the Hotel Quirinal.

Gov. Taft is greatly annoyed by the invasions of the Italian newspapers regarding his visit to Rome. The Italia, one of the chief offenders, published an alleged interview with the governor which was entirely "faked."

TORNADO IN ILLINOIS. One Village Carrol County, Destroying Farm Buildings and Killing Live Stock.

Savannah, Ill., June 8.—A tornado passed through Roy township, this (Carroll) county, Friday evening, destroying ten barns and a church, unroofing buildings and killing much stock.

A dispatch from Mount Carroll says: "A tornado swept over Carroll county Friday afternoon. Nearly every building on the fine stock farm of George N. McLeod, near the city, was destroyed. Several other buildings, including the Baptist church, were wrecked near Elkhorn. The property loss is fully $25,000. No lives were lost."

A Seventy-Mile-an-Hour Gale. New York, June 9.—A 70-mile-an-hour gale started to blow here yesterday afternoon, succeeding a brisk thunderstorm. It caused considerable disturbance in the shipping of the harbor, but with no serious results. At six o'clock last night the gale had decreased to 60 miles an hour, and was steadily falling.

Never Encountered Such Storms. St. Joseph, Mo., June 8.—Craigs arrived here today from runs extending west into Kansas and Nebraska, where they never encountered such severe rain storms in their long experience as they met here.

OF THE

..Woman's Christian Temperance Union..

Edited by a White Ribboner.

If those who have gone before are permitted to know what still occurs in this lower world, a new radiance must have entered the heavenly life of our sweet Jennie Cassidy, of blessed memory, as she looked down from her home on high, last Monday, the ninth day of June, the anniversary of her entrance into her earthly life, that was to be so full of physical pain for her and yet fraught with such a blessed ministry.

At 9 o'clock religious service was held at the jail conducted by Mrs. Fannie Barnhill, the W. C. T. U. superintendent of jail work. Flowers and reading matter were left with the inmates. Mrs. Barnhill has held this position for a number of years and nobly has she filled the place. So far as her circumstances permit, she is truly one of God's ministering servants.

In the afternoon the Madisonville union, the Madisonville Y's, the Slaughterville and Hanson unions, together with friends of the cause, numbering about 60 persons in all, made the alma-house a day that will long be remembered by the inmates.

Here again, a wealth of flowers with their messages of purity and love, books, papers and magazines for the older ones, and picture books for the children, fans, calicoes and quilt pieces were distributed among the inmates of this home, we will say, for so far as comfortable surroundings make a home, it truly deserves the name.

A table was improvised under the shade of the trees in the yard, around which the members of the home were gathered and served with abundance of ice-cold lemonade, tea cakes, fruits and candies.

After all had done ample justice to the pleasures of the palate, a religious service was held, conducted by Rev. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist church, who gave a most impressive talk on the duty of right living while in this world, as a preparation for the higher life in the world to come. God is no respecter of persons. The soul of every inmate of this home is as dear to Him as the inmate of a palace, if a right life is being lived.

Mrs. Melissa Long is superintendent of the alma-house and Mrs. Linnie Jones of flower missions. Both have shown themselves to be the right persons in the right place. Better selections could not be made.

There are at present 33 persons who are here furnished a home, 11 being children.

The superintendent and matron are Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hoggood, who are most admirably adapted for the work. Everywhere, the most absolute cleanliness prevails, not simply for dress parades on occasions of this kind, but all times, go there when you will. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoggood have rare executive ability, good judgment and much tact in dealing with the many complicated problems constantly arising in the conditions of the place; but they have met them all in such a way as to make themselves greatly beloved by all the members of their home. Certainly no higher compliment can be paid them.

The W. C. T. U. return most sincere thanks to all who contributed to make the day a success.

The W. C. T. U. convention of the second congressional district was held at Owensboro on Thursday and Friday of last week. Three of the unions of Hopkins county, Madisonville, Hanson and Slaughterville, were represented by two delegates from each union. A very successful meeting is reported. The convention was held in the Third Baptist church, the church founded by Dr. Fred Hale, having no compromise with the liquor traffic for its foundation stone.

An address of welcome was given by the present pastor, Rev. P. T. Hale, a brother of Fred Hale. This was followed by a welcome in behalf of the mothers of Owensboro, by Mrs. Newton Field. The response in behalf of the convention was made by Mrs. M. H. Hennen, of Hawesville.

The President, Mrs. F. Franceway, delivered her annual address in which she reviewed the work of the past year and urged that an effort be made to secure still better results the coming year. Reference was made to the work of Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman, who had been engaged for a week by the Madisonville union to do organizing work in this part of the district and of the good work accomplished.

Mrs. Beauchamp, State President, was present and made an earnest appeal for the "Mountain school" recently established in this state by the W. C. T. U.

Mr. Cottrell, a prominent Y. M. C. A. worker and brother of R. A. Cottrell, gave a most excellent address on "The Standard of Purity."

Mrs. Franceway was re-elected President and Miss Ruth Plain Corresponding Secretary.

Extract from a letter from Mrs. Nation to the New Voice: "In Jail, Topeka, May 27, 1902.

To the Readers of the New Voice: "The distillers have in the last year resorted to all plans to sell and give away their poisonous drinks. Busch last year made a million barrels of beer, but the sleuth-hounds are on their track. Righteousness is growing in quantity and quality.

"I am in jail for the destruction of my character. This is but the back-ground on which the people are painting pictures that will tell in ballads for home protection. What a condition, when woman, for love of man, is put in prison for a deed of love. This property that our Statute says shall be publicly destroyed, is protected by our courts of injustice. Who is lawless? Not the one who does what the law says shall be done, but the one who swears he will, and then not.

I would to God that all women were altogether such as I am, except in these bonds. I know good will come of this and I bide my time. CARRIE A. NATION."

"These are anything but the words of an inane person. In less than 50 years we predict that the name of Mrs. Nation, though heaped with obloquy now, will be revered with that of Neal Dow, the Father of Prohibition. The wonder is that more women have not been driven to desperate deeds over the terrible evils of the liquor traffic. How much heartache a woman can endure and not die, is one of the great mysteries of this life and only eternity can tell.

Messrs. Collin and Page, the keepers of the blind tigers in the Capitol at Washington, D. C., were each fined $300 by Judge Scott, and in default of payment, a term of 60 days in jail. Bills of exception were filed by the defendants and each gave a bond of $500 as surety to save themselves from the fine imposed, Mr. Michael G. McCormick, a retired liquor dealer, becoming their surety.

Mrs. J. M. Oldham, Misses Tella Coombs and Cooch Beach visited friends in Dawson a few days last week.

"Mr. Wills ranks among the first of his profession and captured the audience by the naturalness of his style and the charming rendition of his well chosen selections.

"He is a splendid interpreter of humorous poems, but perhaps his scenes from the life of Benedict Arnold was the best. 'Arnold's Interview with Talleyrand' was especially well rendered, also the dialogue between the 'Spirit and Old Snak' was well received.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XI, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 15.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xvi, 6-13.
Memory Verse, 1st Timothy ii, 15.
Text, Acts xvi, 15-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.)

4. Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia and the region of Galatia and were forbidden to enter Asia, they came to Mysia.

This is written of Paul and Silas on the second missionary tour. We left Paul and Silas and Barnabas and others in the last lesson at Antioch in Syria preaching the word of the Lord. Then Paul suggested to Barnabas that they revisit the cities where they had preached and see how the brethren were doing. Barnabas wished to take Mark with them, but Paul refused because he had left them on the previous journey. There was a sharp contention, and they separated. Barnabas, taking Mark and sailing to Cyprus, where they began the first tour and to which island Barnabas belonged (Acts xv, 4, 1v, 30, while Paul took Silas and started through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches (chapter xv, 36-41). It is interesting to note that the time came when Paul thought better of Mark and was glad to have him with him (Col. iv, 10; 11 Tim. iv, 13).

5. After they were come to Mysia they assayed to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit suffered them not.

In teaching this lesson and the other missionary lessons a map is essential to the understanding of the lesson. One of the most striking things in this book is the partnership of the Holy Spirit and the apostles just as Jesus had said that it would be (John xiv, 16, 17; xv, 26, 27; 1 Cor. xii, 13; Acts i, 8) and as it was manifested to us in such passages as Acts v, 32; vii, 29; xiii, 2; xv, 28. It has been well said, had not our identity to our Master is as thoroughly exemplified in our refraining from doing what the Spirit forbids as in our doing what He commands.

6. Come over into Macedonia and help us.

Being hindered in going either north or south, as they waited at Troas this is what they heard and saw in a vision. We may be sure of this—that if we are wholly under the Spirit's control, seeing only the glory of God, He will guide us in some unmistakable way (Ps. xxxiii, 8; Isa. xxx, 21). Opposition is not necessarily an evidence that we are to more on or cease the work, but often it is an encouragement to continue. See chapter xiv, 2, 3; xviii, 6, 10; 1 Cor. xvi, 8.

7. And after he had seen the vision immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

The pronoun "we" which now begins to be used may indicate that Luke, the writer of the book, had now joined the party. Previous to this it is "he," speaking of Paul, and "they," speaking of the party. See Col. iv, 14; Phil. 24; 11 Tim. iv, 11, for further references to Luke.

8. Therefore, leaving Troas we came with a straight course to Samothrace and the day after to Neapolis.

By consulting the map we find that Neapolis was an island in the Aegean sea, situated in a line direct from Troas to Neapolis and about half way across. Neapolis being the port of Philippi and about ten miles distant from it. Although we are not told of anything accomplished on the voyage over, we may be sure that He who teaches us to "have the opportunity" (Eph. v, 16, R. V. margin) was not slow to do the same.

9. And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia and a colony; and we were in the city abiding certain days.

Strangers in a strange land, no one to meet and welcome them, no kindly greeting, not expected by any one! What a good time for them to get in some work on his line! And probably he tried it, perhaps after this fashion: Well, Paul, you are quite a distance from home, and nobody knows you or wants you here. Your man in the vision who called you this way is not up to time. Perhaps you have made a mistake. Hadn't you better get back where people know you?

10. And on the Sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

What is this but a woman's prayer meeting at which the gospel is first preached in Europe? Thank God for the women who love to meet for prayer and who labor in the gospel either by proclaiming it or helping those who do (Phil. iv, 3; Ps. lxxviii, 11, R. V.).

11. And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us, whose heart the Lord opened that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

We can readily imagine the topic of Paul's theme, for he had but one—person had taken him captive (Acts ix, 20; xvi, 2, 3; xxviii, 23, 31; 1 Cor. ii, 2). Paul was not suffered at this time to go into the province called Asia, but here was a woman of Asia who up to her light worshipped God and doubtless eagerly prayed for more light, and now she has received it by a special messenger all the way from Syria and had recently from the holy city Jerusalem, one who had himself seen the Lord (1 Cor. xv, 8).

12. And when she was baptized and her household she brought us to her house, and we abode there. And she constrained us.

Now the apostles and their company are not so lonely. They have seen the good hand of our God upon them and have seen souls receiving and confessing Christ. Happy indeed are those who not only receive Jesus into their hearts, but cheerfully hand over to Him spirit, soul and body.

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, as a rule, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness.

The healthiest woman must wear out under such a strain. What can be expected then of those women who are weakened by womanly diseases?

Women who are weak, word-out life and new strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening humors, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and is perfectly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

I suffered with female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—writes Mrs. John Green of Danville, Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles and I feel like another person."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription," is only seeking to make the little more profit paid the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss. Refuse all substitutes.

IN ROME FOR RED HAT.

Cardinal Martinielli to Receive Instructions of His Office.
Cardinal Martinielli, who recently returned to Rome to receive his red hat, his ring and his titular church in the Eternal City, the last ceremony in his elevation to the cardinalate, as the pope's representative was the Italian ecclesiastical dignitary in this country. The papal delegate at Washington outranks every other ecclesiastical in the

CARDINAL MARTINIELLI.

United States. Even Cardinal Gibbons has to give place to him, and this is one of the reasons why the cardinal and the delegate seldom if ever appear together at any function. Courtesy to the local prelate prompts the absence of his official superior.

The church of Rome long ago and long before the continental governments recognized the advent of the United States in world power, hence her official representative at Washington now ranks with the nunciature of the first class.

Pope Leo XIII. has indicated his appreciation of the mission at Washington by twice filling it with prelates on whom he has bestowed his greatest official reward, the red hat. Cardinal Martinielli was preceded by Cardinal Satolli. Who his successor will be has not yet been announced. A number of names have been mentioned in connection with the vacancy, but probability has fixed upon Mr. Dionisio Paolucci, titular archbishop of Genoa and apostolic delegate to Canada, as the most likely candidate.

Mr. Paolucci is a Franciscan friar and is sixty years of age. He came to this country in 1865 and studied at St. Bonaventure's college at Albany. He was ordained a priest in Buffalo in 1866. He became a naturalized citizen of the United States and president of the college in which he had been a student. He afterwards went to Rome, and his brilliant scholarship led to his appointment as delegate to Canada.

Cardinals must be thirty years of age. Mr. Martinielli is one of the youngest members of the college. He is now fifty-four.

SANKEY A PRESBYTERIAN.

Dwight L. Moody's Famous Partner Leaves Methodist Church.

Ira D. Sankey, the famous writer and singer of gospel hymns, who with the late Dwight L. Moody, became universally known as an evangelist, has caused somewhat of a sensation in church circles by leaving the Methodist church to join the ranks of the Presbyterians.
